

Bradley Daley
Tenor

Since making his debut with the English National Opera as Rodolfo in La bohème, tenor Bradley Daley has worked extensively in Europe and Australia. Most recently he sang both Siegfried in Siegfried and Götterdämmerung for Oper Kiel in 2017 and 2018 respectively. In 2019, Mr. Daley returned to Oper Kiel to sing Der Kaiser in Brigitte Fassbaender's Die Frau ohne Schatten, as well as Siegfried in the complete cycle of Der Ring des Nibelungen the same year.

In Australia, he has sung principal roles with Opera Australia, Opera Queensland, Victorian Opera, and State Opera of South Australia. These have included Siegmund in Die Walküre, Pinkerton in Madama Butterfly, Dick Johnson in La Fanciulla del West, Canio in I Pagliacci, Don José in Carmen, Narraboth in Salome, and the title role in Otello.

Recent concert engagements have included Walther in Act III of Die Meistersinger and the title role in Peter Grimes.

Mr. Daley won Green Room awards for his performances as Curley in Carlisle Floyd's Of Mice and Men and as Mao Tse-tung in John Adams's Nixon in China.

In 2020, he will sing Florestan in Fidelio and work with Opera Australia on their new production of Der Ring des Nibelungen.